Beatle ‘Day’ Banned

By Tony Barrow

LONDON — "A Day In The Life," the finest of all the brilliant new "Sgt. Pepper" album compositions, was banned by the British Broadcasting Corporation ten days before the record was released in the U.K.

It is not clear whether or not the B.B.C. followed the example of their American counterparts, but the utter folly of the whole thing is that everybody is finding separate yet equally substantial excuses for banishing the ballad from the airwaves.

Apparently your American censors are as confused as we are by the lyrics, and thought that lines mentioning the town of Blackburn in Lancashire included something about thousands of holes in an arm. The ban must be based upon totally inaccurate information about the first place.

In their announcement the B.B.C. thought that lines about boarding a double-decker bus and going upstairs for a smoke went "a little too far and could encourage a permissive attitude to drug-taking." It is difficult to imagine a more unlikely scene than that of a bunch of pot-puffing hippies dreaming away on a London Transport bus, but there you are!

Said deejay Kenny Everett (in whose B.B.C. show the entire "Sgt. Pepper" album was premiered—minus the best item of all): "The B.B.C. have a lot of nice people who just do not know what it is all about."

The most curious fact which emerges from this mass of nonsense is that not one of the self-styled censors on either side of the Atlantic has mentioned the line "I'd love to turn you on" which could be interpreted as a blatant reference to drugs, but has not been. In fact Paul suggests that this refers to turning people on to a better type of pop music.

††† John and Paul have now completed work on the special composition they were invited to write for the worldwide TV show, "Our World," to be screened live via four satellites to a potential audience of 500 million viewers in 31 countries on June 25. The Beatles' contribution to this two million dollar project will take the form of a direct transmission from their recording session at the E.M.I. studios in St. John's Wood in North London. In writing the lyrics, the Beatles have taken into account the fact that the simplest English words should be incorporated in the song so that a maximum of viewers will understand. In addition, they're toying with the possibility of having big boards held up in the studio with some of the words spelt out in different languages. "Our World" will be carried by more than 100 TV stations in America. Nothing will be pre-recorded or pre-filmed but in countries where the time of the "live" transmission is during non-peak TV hours many stations will repeat the entire program hours later.

ROLLING STONES, MICK JAGGER AND KEITH RICHARD, are pictured leaving the Chichester, England courthouse where they pleaded not guilty to charges of possessing narcotics and asked for a trial by jury. The trial date has not yet been set and the two Stones are free on bail. According to the London daily papers, another member of the Stones, Brian Jones, has also been charged with possessing narcotics. The blond-haired Stone was charged separately—he was not at the party thrown by Richards and raid by officers with a search warrant issued under the Dangerous Drugs Act. Jones made his appearance at a West London court and was freed on a reported 250 pound bail. However, he must return to court in early June. Speculation is running quite high as to whether these drug charges will end the successful career of the Stones as a group and whether or not they will be granted U.S. work permits.
"We aren't the only musicians on this album, but the occasional extra bass or horn player played under our direction, so that this is all ours.

"Each one of us has some musical thing, from Manchester to Texas, from the East Coast to the West, and when four people just go with their thing, what comes out is a whole. Don't ask 'a whole what?', just listen. If only the smallest part of how much fun it was to make this record gets heard, it was all worthwhile."

Bill Cosby Wants Negro TV Comedy

Negro Comic, Bill Cosby, who has been "passing" very successfully in his traditionally white role on the "I Spy" television series is looking ahead to starring in his own situation comedy series as the head of a black but fun-loving, ordinary TV family. He's bucking the same old arguments detractors threw at him when he was cast in the "I Spy" intrigue role.

"They say whites won't identify with a Negro in a part like that," Cosby was quoted recently. "Well, Man, the answer is that ever since movies came along, millions of Negroes have been on the screen, and millions of whites actors and actresses have played Negro roles while Negroes played the white parts."

Lopez closes a three-week stint at New York's Basin Street East on June 24, jets to London for the taping and returns immediately for a one-night concert at Ashbury Park, N.J., on July 3.

Winwood, Davis Join For Movie

Spencer Davis and his former lead singer, Stevie Winwood, have been signed to write ten numbers for "Here We Go 'Round The Mulberry Bush," currently being filmed in England by a United Artists release.

Just over two months ago, the long-time association of Davis and Winwood came to an end when Stevie broke away from the Spencer Davis Group to form his own group, Traffic.

The new Spencer Davis Group will be featured in a dance sequence in "Mulberry Bush" playing the new compositions. Spencer and Traffic will record the title song in addition to the three other numbers he has written for the picture.

OFF TO ENGLAND for Trini, with the new Dylan song which isn't new at all but cut off an album... how many times "Re- press" is going to make it to the top of the charts... whether or not the Every Brothers are going to make a comeback...

Trini Lopez's "San Francisco" being hot on the West Coast but surprisingly cold in the rest of the market and wondering if it is an indication that the title song "49 Don't"... fig flowers worn in the hair... Every Mother's Son being put to death by the right-wing blues paper and deciding that somebody's misplaced their soul... the tears that will be shed if the Bee Gees don't happen in the biggest way possible... Screen Gems thinking of pulling another "Monkees" and watching to see if they can do the same thing twice... now that Tommy James' situation has been taken care of, how about the Lovin' Spoonful?... whether or not they're going to land that ball at the Monterey Pop Festival... the truth was known a top group would lose about every shred of respect they've ever had when somebody is going to pick all the fairy tales apart... whatever happened to the movie the Monkees were supposed to make and deciding that it went the way of the Beatles and Stones' movies...

with some sort of x to grind.

PEOPLE ARE TALKING

ABOUT Nancy Sinatra being considered for Elvis Presley's next movie and wondering whether or not she'll get it... upcoming groups now being "farm teams" from which the top groups are buying members... Brian Jones having as much, if not more, trouble than his two fellow Stones but is receiving much less publicity about it... whether or not the Beatles will ever make a third group movie and deciding that they never will...

the Lovin' Spoonful getting a national hit despite the fact that the Haight-Ashbury crowd doesn't dig them any more... the Seeds having as much, if not more, trouble than the people who are now claiming to have originated the term "flower children"... the Association bowing out of the "Steve Allen" Show... and thinking that they were smart to come to that decision... a certain rock group who becomes upset if they're knocked...

Bill Coby turning singer and wondering how that's going to work out... when fan riots are going to completely kill personal appearances... the fact that the MBE's don't stop the banning of records and the radio station which got caught in the middle of a giant public outcry to hide the real problem... why "Society's Child" ever got banned in the first place and deciding that the Establishment is scared to death of any hint of controversy and what a shame that is...

Cher in her mini-dress and thinking perhaps she should go back to bell bottoms... why that obvious publicity story on the Jefferson Airplane got into a national magazine and why they took too long to shoot pictures but didn't spend a little time actually talking to the group... the possibility of Gary Alexander forming his own group... Sammy Davis Jr. getting on the pop charts alongside Harpers Bizarre and the Bee Gees... Flower power spreading but destined to doom since it will be commercialized and killed just like "psychedelic music" was... taking a "happening" across the Midwest and South... why the Byrds didn't show up for their Sun

KINKS HEAD TO LEAVE?

Reports from the British press allege that the Kinks' lead singer Ray Davies will limit personal appearances as much as the group to devote more time to composing. He may be seeking a position similar to that of Brian Wilson with the Beach Boys--an end to performing with the group and the beginning of a sort of background composer-producer role.

"A substitute would have to take my place on these occasions," Ray reportedly said. "But I intend having a good laugh over all the unaware of the situation, and I will honor all existing contracts."

Ray said time was too limited to include personal appearances and preparatory work on the group's records. He had to leave his writing half finished to join the group on their recent Scandinavian tour which he says is an obvious handicap to the group.

He will continue to record with the group and said there is no question of his completely severing ties with the group.

However, when reached for comment, the Kinks' co-manager, Robert Wace denied any chance of Ray leaving the group even on a temporary basis. He said rumors indicating Ray's departure "are being put around by people with some sort of x to grind."

POP MUSIC: NEXT STEP IN RACIAL INTEGRATION

By Sally Standig

The Supremes joined everyone in the swank Copacabana New York nightclub by tossing off Motown, the million-dollar sound they spread around the world, and doing an all-pop act! Would you believe a night with the Supremes singing, "Michelle," "Yesterday" and material from "West Side Story" and "Thoroughly Modern Millie?!" Their old Detroit-sound hits were included, but with black type arrangements. They sang a medley of "Stop In The Name Of Love," "Baby Love" and others with a sound closer to Liverpool than Detroit.

The Supremes' new image is less surprising viewed against the background of increasing infiltration of white artists onto the R&B charts and Negro artists on rock 'n' roll best-sellers list. The inference of integration laws can't achieve, seems to be no problem at all in pop music.

With increasing regularity, white musicians are popping up on the R&B charts. The Young Rascals, Ritchie Ryder, the Spencer Davis Group, the Righteous Brothers (they've been nick-named the "blue-eyed soul brothers") Elvis Presley and Jerry Lee Lewis have all swept up in the soul sound market.

One of the big record companies specializing in R&B reports that the bulk of orders for "New York Mining Disaster, 1941" by a new white group, the Bee Gees, are coming in from all Negro neighborhood dealers. The Dave Clark Five, have seen nothing but sales since releasing "You Got What It Takes" with a R&B arrangement.

The integration of R&B radio programming by white artists is a logical spin-off of the increased exposure of R&B on rock stations. R&B stations have also felt some hostile reactions with the discovery that up to half their playlists are being aired on traditionally pop-rock stations.

High up on the rock top-sellers list are Arthur Conley, Aretha Franklin, Peaches and Herb, Martha and the Vandellas, the Marvelettes, the Four Tops and the Temptations.

Until recently, an R&B station would scratch a release from its playlist if it discovered an all-white artist was black. Now all records are black, it was often hard to tell new artist's color from his sound. Now an artist's color seems to be giving way to how close his material is to the R&B vein as a criterion for airing new releases.

Someone is certainly trying to pull the wool over a lot of people's eyes. A spokesman for Tom Jones issued a statement to the British and American press to the effect that negotiations were going on between Jones' manager, Gordon Mills, and Elvis Presley's manager, Col. Tom Parker.

"If we reach agreement, it would mean that he (Parker) would manage Tom in the States and look after his interests there," says Col. Parker's spokesman. "There is no basis to it at all. A press agent for Tom Jones wrote a letter and asked if when they visit the States they could come by and say hello. Col. Parker only manages one talent and that is Elvis Presley. We are not discussing, nor do we have any interest in managing anyone else."

The Association are off the road for a few weeks but keeping themselves quite busy finishing up their third album, "In the Groove," which appeared on "The Smothers Brothers," have taped a "Steve Allen Show," and will be the first rock group ever to play the famed Greek Theatre in Los Angeles.

Of course, you've already seen their appearance on the "Smothers Brothers" but in the next issue of "The Beat-KET," we'll bring you exclusive photos of what went on backstage during rehearsals, breaks, etc.

Tomorrow Today

The Quote of the Week comes from the Seeds' manager, Tim Hudson: "The Seeds are playing the music of the new generation - the people who want tomorrow today." The Seeds were, in reality, the originators of the "flower children" tag which is spreading rapidly across the country, picking up originator-claimants as it moves along - but remember it was the Seeds who started it.

The Dave Clark Five have set the dates for their next Stateside tour which kicks off Saturday, July 20, in Boston. It then moves on to Portland, Maine (July 17); Chicago (June 18); Fargo, North Dakota (June 20); Minot, North Dakota (June 21); San Carlos, Calif. (June 26); Atlantic City, New Jersey (July 4); Wallingford, Conn. (July 9); Baltimore, Maryland (July 10); Virginia Beach, Va. (July 16); Cleveland, Ohio (July 16); and winds up on July 23 in Camden, New Jersey.

Cosby To Sing?

According to my spies, Bill Cosby is set to make his debut as a singer in August at the Whisky A-Go-Go in Los Angeles. Some singers are certainly comedians - should be interesting to see how a comic/actor becomes a straight singer!

Besides being a successful entertainer, Johnny Rivers is very much a successful businessman. Rivers' Soul City Records has just signed a new contract with Liberty Records, which will run through 1972 and guarantees Johnny approximately $200,000 a year against the net on his own recordings. The contract also gives Johnny free reign to sign any artist he wishes to record as well as song publication rights. Not bad for someone who is only 24.

Well, it looks as if the Monkees are going to receive another one - their latest album, "Headquarters," was not even released when it was ear-marked a million seller! RCA reports that initial orders for the album soared over the million mark and they have requested to the RIAA to certify it as a million-seller.

The Monkees' first record was released last August and to date they have sold over 6 million albums and 6 million singles in the United States alone - which should set Monkee-haters back a notch or two.

SMOKEY ROBINSON & THE MIRACLES — from a show to a riot.

Smokey Robinson Show Explodes Into A Riot

Critics who charge rock 'n roll concerts inspire violence were given fresh ammunition when a San Diego concert featuring Smokey Robinson and The Miracles, Motown recording artists, ended with hundreds of young people rioting in the downtown convention hall of the Community Concert.

According to police, rioters threw rocks and bottles at shop windows, police and civilian cars and overturned trash cans. One passerby was knocked down and his wallet stolen. Another was beaten unconscious by a youth swinging a wooden crutch, police said.

Thirty-eight persons were arrested in the two-hour melee. Twenty-seven were juveniles and 11 adults.

Charges ranged from assaulting a police officer to drunkenness, loitering, disorders, disturbing the peace, resisting arrest, malicious mischief, curfew violation, battery, assault with a deadly weapon and escape.

The rioting began with the injury of three policemen and three private guards as they stopped fist fights and made arrests at the concert.

The second phase of the rampage began shortly after the capacity audience of 4,000 emptied out of the hall. About 100 helmeted police reinforcements wielding riot sticks were just beginning to arrive. They were put into two riot lines, each headed by a lieutenant. Using bullhorns, officers told the youths they were assembled unlawfully and would be subject to arrest if they did not disperse.

The crowd barely budge and police began swinging their sticks and making arrests and chaos erupted. At that point about 500 of the crowd fanned out in the area which also contains City Hall, Civic Theater, an exhibition center and a shopping district.

While police were trying to break up fist fights, the performance was stopped. About 50 young people rushed the stage. But stagehands quickly raised the hydraulic-powered stage to prevent the audience from reaching the performers.

When reached for comment, a Los Angeles representative of Motown Records said, "We can't comment because we weren't there."
Beatles On World TV

LONDON - The Beatles will reach an estimated audience of 500 million in 31 countries in a two-hour special to be aired worldwide on television. The Beatles will be seen live, recording a new tune on June 25. The song was written by John Lennon and Paul McCartney especially for the TV program and will be the next Beatles' single release if the foursome like the results.

The BBC will beam the show, called "Our World," around the United Kingdom. More than 100 U.S. stations have agreed to broadcast it. Three American and one Russian communications satellites will participate in the global telecast.

Spector Signs?

LOS ANGELES - Phil Spector, dubbed "the tycoon of teens" for reaching multi-millionaire status by 21 by producing rock 'n' roll sounds, is signing A&M records at top post. The deal reportedly is part of an A&M takeover of Spector's music-business concerns, which include Phillips Records. Spector's new job will stress the development of new rock-pop material.

As a record producer and writer, Spector has developed a reputation for consistent success in the television field. His latest projects include the Crystals, the Ronettes and Bob E. Sox & the Blue Flames, and the Righteous Brothers to smash-selling success. Since moving to the west coast several years ago, Spector has developed an interest in producing movies.

Bacharach Inks Musical Score

Burt Bacharach, a double Oscar nominee for his motion picture scores, "Alfie" and "What's New Pussycat," has signed a pact with producer Dave Merrick, to write the music for Merrick's first venture into Broadway musicals, the stage production of the 1960 hit film, "The Apartment."

Monkee Song Men To A&M

Two songwriters credited with a large share of the Monkees' phenomenal success, Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart, have just signed long-term agreements with A&M records as artist-producers.

Boyce and Hart had a string of hits before writing Monkees songs like "Last Train to Clarksville," "I Want To Be Free" and "The Monkees Theme." The duo will make their singing debut on a forthcoming A&M single release. Before joining the Monkee team, Boyce and Hart had over 30 of their songs recorded by Dean Martin, Little Anthony, Tommy Sands and Jay and the Americans.

ROD McKUEN THRIVES ON STEADY WORK DIET

Rod McKuen, multi-faceted singer-writer, left his hillside Hollywood home for a business trip to New York, Paris and London.

He is stopping in New York to discuss his latest book, "Listen To The Warm," with his publisher, Random House. McKuen is the talk of the publishing industry since his first book of poetry, "Sanctuary Street and Other Sorrows," published last year sold over 50,000 copies and is the biggest seller poetry collection since Walter Benton published, "This Is My Beloved," over 20 years ago. Poetry books are notoriously poor sellers and advisors told McKuen he would not realize much profit on his work.

After New York, he will be in Paris with French singer, Jacques Brel, who collaborated with McKuen on their current hit song, "If You Go Away." He will also confer with Anouk Aimee on her starring in the screen version of McKuen's current popular LP, "The Sea," which he co-authored with Anita Kerr. McKuen is now working on the film treatment.

Before returning to Hollywood, he will produce two LPs from material he wrote with Miss Kerr. The records will be cut in London and Paris using a 100-piece orchestra.

The Bee Gees are Brian Epstein's new discovery — which means what?

BEAT SPECIAL BY TONY BARROW

Mining Disaster Gets Bee Gees To America

"New York Mining Disaster, 1941" hopped only in the fertile minds of a group called the Bee Gees. It's the self-penned song which has sent 17-year-old twins Maurice and Robin Gibb, their 19-year-old brother Barry Gibb and drummer Colin Petersen (19) high up into Britain's Top Ten. What's more, this was one of several recordings which convinced Ahmet Ertegun, President of Atlantic R. Records of America, that a quarter of a million dollars would be sensibly spent to secure U.S. record rights of the Bee Gees over the next five years.

Visit U.S.

This month the Bee Gees are on your side of the Atlantic, their first promotional trip to America with something like 14 cities to be covered in as many days. If you don't get to meet them this time there a - sure to be more opportunities. It's a safe bet that the Bee Gees will be back for a bill-topping concert tour before the end of the year.

In 1958, the year that George Harrison joined three potential Beatles in Liverpool, the Bee Gees were already operating as an amateur rock 'n' skiffle trio 30 miles from Merseyside in their hometown of Manchester. In fact they'd made their stage debut entertaining an all-kid audience at a local Saturday morning cinema show two years earlier (in 1956) when the twins were 7-years-old and Barry was just nine.

Then the Gibb family left England, emigrating to Australia. In March, 1960 on Brisbane's ABC television channel the Bee Gees had their own weekly 30-minute show. Three years later they were signed by Australia's Festival record label and brought out their first self-composed single entitled "Three Kisses Of Love."

It was not until the early part of 1967 that the Bee Gees decided to head home to England. By then they'd notched up three Number One hits on the Australian charts, been voted top songwriting team of 1965 and 1966 and collected a special award as Australia's best group of 1966.

Contact Epstein

On arrival in London the three boys tried to make contact with Brian Epstein and sent through to his office a series of tapes and albums they'd made before leaving Australia. But it was Brian's Australian colleague Robert Stigwood, Joint Managing Director of NEMS Enterprises, who returned their calls and fixed the meeting which was to result in the signing of a 5-year management contract for the Bee Gees. Simultaneously with that signing, the Bee Gees expanded from trio strength to quartet. They added COLIN PETERSSEN on drums, Colin, the only Australian member of the outfit, is the former child movie star who played the title roles in "The Scamp" and "Smiley" ten years ago.

"New York Mining Disaster, 1941" was issued in the U.K. in the middle of April. Considering that the name Bee Gees didn't mean a thing to British fans until this single came on the scene, the group's success was swift, its impact immediate.

On Thursday, May 11, the Bee Gees made their U.K. TV debut on "Top of the Pops" show. The four boys plus most of the dancers in the studio audience wore silver and black badges with the words "Be A Bee Gee Bopper!"

Perhaps the most remarkable facet of the Bee Gee talent is songwriting. The three Gibb brothers have an extraordinary flair for creating lyrics which tell curiously off-beat stories. How many other teenage tunemasters would have thought of making a mine disaster and trapped men waiting to die the theme of a chart-aimed pop record? But when you get to hear Atlantic's "The Bee Gee First" album you'll appreciate the full scope of their creative ability. Every track is an original number written in London over the past few weeks and recorded under the joint studio supervision of Australian producer Ossie Byrne and manager Robert Stigwood. No wonder so many people - experts as well as fans - are beginning to believe in the Bee Gees as the most potent penning 'n performing unit to hit the music business since the Beatles brought out "Love Me Do" in October, 1962!
ed in America for their first visit than a nationally syndicated columnist broke the Jane Asher/Paul McCartney romance and the rumors have haunted Paul to this day. Every reporter asked the same question of McCartney: "Are you married or planning to marry Jane Asher?" He smiled and bore the monotonous questioning until finally he was fed up.

"I've no plans but everybody keeps saying I have. Maybe they know better. They say I'm married and divorced and have 50 kids — so you might as well say it too."

Charming

McCartney's "charming" label became a drag as time went on and he concentrated more on saying what he felt rather than what others wanted him to say. He disliked the protest song movement intensely and said so. "They make me concentrate too much on the lyric — which I don't like."

"I think Barry McGuire's 'Eve Of Destruction' is rubbish. And when I first heard it I thought it was bad. When I saw McGuire in person leaping around in those boots and growling, I just felt about!

"The Manfreds did a protest number on television which was the end. It was so bad they must have written it themselves."

But to say that Paul completely gave up being "the charming Beatle" would be a lie. He was as charming as he'd ever been — only quite a bit more frank and a little more outspoken.

In 1965 the Beatles turned down an invitation to appear before the Queen at the Royal Variety Show in London and it was Paul who explained the group's decision to the press. "It's not our audience. If we went on and those people didn't like us everyone would say, 'ha, ha, the Beatles failed, they're on the slide'."

His sense of humor he kept intact, his ability to laugh at himself, at the Beatles and at the world, no doubt, saw him through some pretty rough times. Walter Shensen tells one of the funniest stories about McCartney.

"Boorish"

It seems that once Paul approached Shensen with a newspaper review from one of the London papers. "I don't think it's fair," moaned McCartney. "This chap says we're boorish. That's the one thing we're not — we never bore," Shensen explained that "boorish" does not mean "boring" it means "uncouth." "Oh, uncouth," said the relieved Paul. "Well, I think that's fair enough!"

The deafening waves of screams which traditionally accompany a Beatle concert received much notice in the press. Reporters demanded to know how the Beatles felt about performing amid the noise.

And it was Paul who answered:

"The fans pay their money to come in and if they want to scream then that's their perquisite. We don't mind if they scream. Why should we?

"The only thing that counts is that they are having a good time for their money. Anyway, five years ago we were playing without the screams and, friend, it wasn't half as nice. I mean, the bread is important too, you know."

Although it was Lennon who received the attention for making "How I Won The War," it was McCartney who first left the group to try his hand alone. He wrote "Woman" for Peter and Gordon, but asked that a pen name be used rather than his real name. His idea worked — for a while.

"I knew someone would find out the truth sooner or later," said Paul, "but I'm glad the story didn't leak out until after 'Woman' had become a hit in Britain and America. I hate to read record reviews which say that so-and-so will have a hit just because a Beatle number is involved. It's not fair on the artists concerned."

"Anyway, my idea worked. Incidentally, this is the only song I've published under a pen name. I don't plan to repeat the idea... well, not at the moment, anyway."

Keeps Cool

Paul is well-noted for his cool. It's amazing how he keeps it when people ask some of the most ridiculous questions imaginable. An "image" is manufactured by a press agent and the press itself. It often times has nothing to do with what entertainers are really like. Yet, during the summer of '66 a reporter stood himself up and asked Paul to explain the Beatles' image.

"I don't know," snapped the hard-to-irritate McCartney. "Our image is what we read in the papers. You people make up our image. We know what our real image is and it's nothing like 'image'."

McCartney once said: "It's always pleasured when somebody has a hit with one of our songs — it's almost as good as us doing it."

Yet, a rather well-informed reporter wanted to know what Paul thought of other artists 'stealing the Beatles' material."

Don't Steal

"They don't steal them," fired back Paul. "No, I know they don't," replied the reporter. "But you just said they did," countered Paul, "and besides, we pinch just as much as the rest of 'em."

The Beatles will never tour America again. The press will never have the opportunity to try their hand at making Beatle squirm. But, undoubtedly, McCartney will continue to look through his charm and allow the world the occasional glimpse of what goes on inside his mind.

YOUR SIGN IS ARIES IF YOUR BIRTHDAY FALLS BETWEEN MARCH 21 TO APRIL 20

If you think that you are very broad-minded but you are fooling yourself. You are really very selfish and after all, you must keep your own interests first. You need to understand that your friends are important but you should also look out for yourself. You will need to learn to share and be more considerate of others.

YOUR SIGN IS Taurus IF YOUR BIRTHDAY FALLS BETWEEN MARCH 21 TO APRIL 21

Why do you believe what you see? Now is the time to look at yourself critically. The position of the moon is going to change and you will need to be aware of this. Take stock of your room, your girlfriend, your clothes - do they express the real you?

YOUR SIGN IS GEMINI IF YOUR BIRTHDAY FALLS BETWEEN MAY 21 TO JUNE 21

You are a complainer. Continuing this trait will cost you important friendships. The world doesn’t owe you anything. Be independent and go after what you want. Be creative. This is an excellent time to develop skills you never thought you had. Perseverance will bring rewards.

YOUR SIGN IS CANCER IF YOUR BIRTHDAY FALLS BETWEEN JUNE 22 TO JULY 22

You are quite attractive but you should stop running your looks with too much make-up or affected clothes. Dressing like a long-haired boy will not get you anywhere. Keep your hair short and wear simple clothes.

YOUR SIGN IS LEO IF YOUR BIRTHDAY FALLS BETWEEN JULY 23 TO AUGUST 22

You are a very sensitive person and may be prone to depression. You need to learn to relax and enjoy life. You are a natural leader and should take on more responsibilities.

YOUR SIGN IS VIRGO IF YOUR BIRTHDAY FALLS BETWEEN AUGUST 23 TO SEPT 22

Things will go smoothly for you in the early part of the month but a sudden crisis will bring you bad luck toward the middle. Be strong.

Modern Pirates Bring TV To Britain in September

By Tony Barrow

Before the end of the year, the BBC will broadcast live television shows from the London Stock Exchange. This will be a first for the BBC, who have been working on the project for some time. The shows will feature live music, interviews, and other entertainment.

Jenny Legge took over from an inspired Marianne Faithfull in the short sell-out run of Chekov's "Three Sisters" at the Royal Court Theatre. The show was directed by Brian Epstein and received excellent reviews.

The Bee Gees have just released their new album "First," which has won critical acclaim. The album features a mix of pop and rock songs and is sure to be a hit with fans.

Mort Shuman in London at the recording session when Cilla Black sang "What Good Am I?" and Mitch Ryder in London minus "The Mitch Ryder Show" for an interview.

Four days at San Francisco's Fillmore Auditorium should win Jimi Hendrix total appreciation of California's pop people...Paul McCartney shaved off his moustache. First "cover version" single of a "Sgt. Pepper" item in U.K. was "She's Leaving Home" from David and Jonathan whose recording manager is George Martin...

Follow trade paper stories suggesting that Ray Davies, leader of the Kinks, was considering quitting to concentrate on song-writing, his management issued strongly worded denial. Rumor was that Ray would function rather like Brian Wilson does - guiding and directing the group's activities rather than performing at all concert dates...Rolling Stones' "Flower" album not issued in Britain where next release is expected to be a July single.

Lyrics of "Heaven and Hell" recorded by the Easybeats altered for U.S. release to avoid anticipated controversy and possible radio banning...New single "Strange Brew" and upcoming album by Cream in New York...New "West Coast USA" column for London's Record Mirror...David Gooch being dubbed "Britain's first psychedelic journalist!"

Monterey Pop Festival News

Definite information is coming into KRLA daily about the Monterey International Pop Festival to be held in the beach side city on June 16th, 17th and 18th. Tickets can now be purchased at all Mutual Ticket Agencies and Wallich's Music City - prices range from $3.00 to $6.50 per concert. Just some of the artists appearing on Friday's concert will be The Association, Buffalo Springfield, Grateful Dead, Jimi Hendrix, Laura Nyro, Lou Rawls, and Simon and Garfunkel.

On Saturday, June 17th, you can see Paul Butterfield Blues Band, Hugh Masekela, Beach Boys, Booker T and the MG's, Byrds, Jefferson Airplane, Hugh Masekela, Otis Redding and more. Sunday -- Ravi Shankar, Blues Project, Mamas and Papas, Johnny Rivers, Dionne Warwick and The Who. More artists are being added every day. And, preparations are being made for package tours leaving Friday night and returning Sunday...so make your plans today. And keep listening to KRLA for information about how you can win a free trip to the Festival!

Question Of The Hour

Why is it immoral for young people under 18 to dance in Los Angeles when they dance six feet apart?

"Why do most of the people who claim to be non-conformists all dress alike?"

These are just two of the questions heard on KRLA's "QUESTION OF THE HOUR"...a once an hour news feature which has provoked more than a few listeners to THINK! "QUESTION..." was originated by Cecil Tuck, KRLA's News Director, in an effort to make the listeners aware that today's news affects everyone...that you and I are not just observers but participants.

A Saturday night newscast carried the first question, and Monday morning's mail carried the first listener reaction. Over one-hundred and seventy questions were supplied by listeners who already knew they were participants...and they had some questions of their own. A listener from Compton asked..."If we drafted 60 year olds first, instead of 19 year olds, would Congress still extend the selective service law?"

Casey Issues Astrology LP

Why did we break up?
Will romance come my way?
What am I really like?

Now Casey Kasem, KRLA's sincerest disc jockey, has the answers for pondering young adults in a new album, "Astrology For Young Lovers."

The album, a series of readings for all signs of the zodiac, was especially forecast by Jack Bradford, noted astrologer and syndicated columnist.

"Astrology is the 'now' thing," says Casey, "it's amazing what astrological predictions have come true. Some of our greatest minds have had their own personal astrologers and wouldn't make a move without their consent."

"Astrology For Young Lovers" deals with the traits and predictions of 1967-68, and includes a list of birthdays for almost all of today's recording, movie and television stars.

Forcing The Establishment to Bend

By Louise Criscone

While the love-ins, be-ins, Chi-Quits stickers and protest marches give the Establishment the inkling of what the younger generation thinks, feels and hopes to change, the two Smothers Brothers hit hard into millions of homes each week, pulling the wool from sensitive adult eyes.

It's been said that Tommy and Dickie Smothers reflect the attitudes of the younger generation. "I never thought about it really that much," said Dickie as he sprawled on a couch in their windowless office at CBS. "But I agree with it now that I look at it.

"They're our attitudes basically. We're not trying to identify with any particular group of people but if we have the same attitudes as the younger generation, then we are identifying with them," Dickie philosophized.

The tremendous success of their Sunday night show caught most people by surprise. "It surprised us too," admitted Dickie. "It has nothing to do with us really. One point is timing. Bonanza's getting old and there are a lot of viewers looking for another show. So, we came on with a variety show which received all the cliches like 'fresh', 'different', 'new', 'exciting'...."

At which point the door burst open and brother Tommy strode in, dropped his white hat on the coffee table, opened his lunch pail (grammar school kids carry) and proceeded to announce to no one in particular, "I have four new jokes." With that out of the way, he plopped himself into the only vacant chair and pulled what was left of his lunch pail as an unadmitted Dick picked up where he had left off. "I think our show is the only variety show which really can be turned on. Young people do identify with us because we don't do the stupid things that the Establishment does.

As you have no doubt surmised by now, the Establishment is not the Smothers' favorite thing in the world. They wage a continuous war with the network censors, a war which as yet has neither side emerging as the victor.

"In every show there's something," said a disgusted Tommy. "All year we've fought censorship. Every show is compromised and deleted.

They really call in censors, though," said Dickie, who had a hard time remembering exactly what they were called. "But it's the department which is the view of CBS as to what can go on the air. What it comes down to is the fact that anything they don't want on television doesn't get on. It's not acceptable to all the people, they don't want it on.

"I was never aware that freedom of expression and personal opinions are really limited," said Tommy. "You're not allowed to say it if it's not within the realm of the Establishment or adult views. The crime of silence is the worst crime. There are so many things which should be said but all we can do is our best and get as much out as we can.

Buck It

"The artists themselves have very little to say," he continued. "We're probably saying more on our show than we ever did before because we have a chance to do. But the only way to buck the Establishment is to join it—but not by being a sell-out.

How does he know that once he joins the Establishment he won't become one of them, think like they think and act like they act? "As a performer I haven't sold-out, yet. I think I'd do the same thing in a high position, but who knows? You never know what you'd do until you're actually in the position.

The Smothers don't just knock the Establishment—they question its validity. Are they asking people to change or simply commenting on what's happening?

Social Comment

"We're making social comment—leftists, liberals, conservatives, you name it. We don't think you can make social comment on something without asking for a little bit of change." This social comment has caused some members of the Establishment to cry that the brothers are "tasteless." Especially drawing fire was the bit they did on the Revolutionary War bit some critics have termed "tasteless."

"They don't agree that the Revolutionary War thing was in bad taste," argued Dickie. "The basic premise is that I defend it. I don't think it looks like their basic premise is right.

Handle

"Now the madist bit Tommy did with Carol Burnett or the KKK thing—at least I can see a handle on that. But you can't handle something tasteless if it's just good. Tasteless is a very ambiguous term anyway."

It's all right to poke good, clean fun at someone who is going with the President's daughter, etc... but to make fun of someone like Casius Clay would be different," said the brothers.

"Maybe the guy's sincere," believes Dickie. "And we shouldn't make fun of him. He's an underdog and to make fun of an underdog would be in bad taste."

A recent show featured a bit which on the surface was funny while it's underlying message (why is killing acceptable while making love is not?) was piercing and legitimate.

"We're brought up on violence and it makes that much more acceptable," said Dickie. "Take my brother's lunch pail (which features war paraphernalia). He sent his mad out to him a lunch pail, she went to four stores and that's the only kind she could find.

"Basically, we'd like our comedy to have a purpose. We're on a level now where people either take us or dislike us—love us or hate us. There's no in-between."

While those who "hate" them are vocal, they constitute an extremely small minority. "They're bound to bring somebody up with what we say," Dickie continued. "It upsets the network but it doesn't bother us. It's impossible to please everyone and you just have to take the good with the bad.

Impressive List

The brothers have had an impressive guest list since they've been on the air but so far no one has been able to steal the spotlight from the face-making, word-tribbing Tommy or the straight-faced, serious Dickie (whom their mother always liked best).

They had Jack Benny and George Burns on one of their shows and all of a sudden people decided they were successful.

"You know the saying, 'guilt by association?"' asked Tommy. "Well, this was success by association. Hey, that's a good line, success by association, we'll have to use that some time.

Face Value

Much of the Smothers' success, I think, can be attributed to the fact that their comedy can be accepted at face value. The Establishment and dug by the hipper people who are perspective enough to pick up on the deeper meanings.

"We've always had that," agreed Tommy. "The people who bring in the sandwiches to the factory, the lunch-bucket-bunch, see us on the street and say, 'you guys are okay,' but they don't even know why.

"A good line, delivered well, doesn't have to be specific. That's the biggest thing—the attitude of the line. People are watching it. Writing always slips in and you know you can give a laugh. What exactly does that mean by "attitude?" "Attitude is like watching a man on 'Candid Camera.' He's just being natural but he's funny. We try to stay close to that without relying on jokes.

Consistency

"Consistency is so important. That's the first thing, I think. The Beatles are consistent but how many groups come along with a good record and you never hear from again? Or else, how many put out a good album and then follow it up with a bad one? I may be bony," laughed Tommy, "but at least I'll be consistent!"

Although most variety shows now put out a talent resident in a desperate attempt to pick up a young audience, the "Smothers Brothers" is probably the only show which takes the trouble to consult the pop acts on presentation.

Ignorant of TV

"Everyone we have a rock group on," explained Tommy, "we ask them how they want to be presented. They're not performers in a sense, their big thing is sound. We tell them, break down your song and let us know who you want spotlighted. Where do you want the close-ups and then we'll be able to keep with what you want to do. But most of the time they're ignorant of television.

Despite the fact that the national charts are adhered to in booking their acts, it's apparent that the Smothers require is not a hit-record but rather the ability to perform. Lip-syncing is strictly frowned upon because it would be like "afternoon dance time" with what's guy's name?" said Tommy.

The Smothers originally went into television with their comedy series ("Thank God that one went well") because they felt that they would be as possible with the concert and night club circuit and the only way left for them to go was up. But what's up? now that they've conquered television?

Fate

"We don't want to stay with it that long," answered Tommy. "We're successful in the media but we don't know what will happen. Personally, I want to get into the producing and directing end. But it depends on fate—whatever fate brings.

So, until fate brings something else, Tommy and Dickie Smothers will go on fighting the Establishment.

CUT RATE DRUG STORES
By Cheryl Halter

Thursday started out as just an ordinary sunny California day at famous Disneyland. Then the clock struck 12:30 and thru the gates passed the money-making model Twiggy, all aglow with her little girl charms.

All about to embark on a day filled with fantasy and fun, Twiggy was met at the gate by Marcia Minor, Miss Disneyland of 1967, the official V.I.P. tour guide for the park. Also awaiting her arrival were the park's public relations and publicity men and press photographers from all over Southern California. When you are a news item it seems the press can find you wherever you go. But Twiggy still claims, "I'm just an ordinary girl." The rest of the world doesn't seem to agree with her.

Never Suspect

When Twiggy arrived at Disneyland no one could suspect that she was the world's top fashion model if it were not for the press. She was clad in a simple blue bell-bottomed capri outfit, with a halter-type shell, backless and tying at the neck.

Twiggy is rarely seen anywhere without her boyfriend/manager, Justin de Villeneuve and Disneyland was no exception. Justin is known as the man most responsible for Twiggy's fast rise to fame in the fashion world.

Three male escorts accompanied Twiggy and Justin along with Bert Stern, producer of ABC Specials, not to mention the crew of fans and curious people that followed Twiggy everywhere.

Twiggy's party started with lunch at the Plaza Inn, in the V.I.P. dining room. She then proceeded to take in as many rides and shops as she could before the day ended. As Twiggy moved along Main Street her little girl curiosity moved her big blue eyes into the small shops and stores. She seemed to be lost in a wonderful dream that would never end.

Small Child

Following Twiggy is not like spending a day with any other teenager. It is more like traveling with a small child on a holiday. She seems to enjoy every moment in life, and wants to make sure she doesn't waste any time on unpleasant things.

Now the time has come for Twiggy to leave her holiday at Disneyland. It may well be that she will never forget this day. Nor will the people of Disneyland forget one of the most delightful V.I.P.'s that has come to visit the ever-famous Disneyland.
Money Is Only Good To Buy Candy Bars''

By Louise Creelone

Nestled on the side of a hill in Hollywood is the home of an extremely talented, highly successful, completely amusing man named Rod McKuen. A giant cross-section of you know him. Those of you who don't are completely missing out. Obviously you can't all troop up to his house and bang on the door (though he'd probably let you all in if you did), so we've done it for you.

Rod lives with a giant English sheepdog and two cats, one of which "talks" and the other of which is deaf. If for nothing else, Rod is unique in the fact that he handles just about everything himself. No manager, no publicist... just Rod and his animals.

Frankly, it was the easiest interview I've ever done. Rod did the talking; I did the listening. He knows himself, his feelings and his beliefs better than I'll ever be able to. Listen to him. You'll be glad you did.

"There is no such thing as teenagers over nine. The only two teenagers left are Little Orphan Annie and Shirley Temple."

"We live in an adult world. When I went to school it was a lot different and when my brother, who is younger than I am, went to school it was different. The kids of today have a lot more responsibility than we did. Madison Avenue started it. It's not necessarily bad but kids have to realize their responsibility."

"There's always been a generation gap. There's a gap between you and your parents; there are two generation gaps between you and your grandparents. It has nothing to do with today's generation alone but it's more evidenced today because there are more people today."

"There are so many bad songs today because there are more songwriters today. It's supply and demand and somebody to fill it."

"REBELLING AGAINST CONFORMITY"

"They create their own conformity. They decide to have no conformity and then others draw to it. It's an excuse for not doing anything. The world doesn't owe you and me a living. There's nothing real about Haight/Asbury."

"The word 'hippies' is kind of a catch-all phrase like 'teeny-bopper.' It's bad--this putting people into a mode. Frankly, I'm delighted with the current generation. I think they're great. They ask questions and maybe if they ask enough questions they'll get some answers--if not from the older generation, maybe they'll be able to find out the answers for themselves."

"WHY NO ED SULLIVANS?"

"You know, I get offers to appear on these national television shows but I turn them all down because I feel that I have to sing at least 20 minutes to a people. I can't do it as a fast act singing one song for three minutes and then coming back on at the end of the show to sing another song."

"I like to play colleges. Usually my college concerts sell-out as soon as they're announced but I don't do it for the money. I feel that if I have an audience of 5,000 and 50 of them go away understanding what I've tried to say I've really done something sensational."

"I hate acting. It was something I wanted to do for awhile. I guess if the right part came along I'd take it but I don't want to just take anything. It's like with my writing. I'd rather write something well and not have it sell any copies. I have all the money I'll ever need. I won't be a millionaire maybe, but I'll have enough money. I came from a very poor family and I've had to support my family since I was 11. I've learned that money is only good to buy candy bars and important things like dog licenses and cat food."

"PROTESTING AND DRAFT DOGGING"

"'It's (America) a great country. I think that we owe a responsibility to defend the country we live in. The country defends us. It's not up to entertainers to express political views and we shouldn't send ballerina dancers to Washington."

"I don't believe in doing anything unless it's to the best of my ability. The Beat' (Rod's album with Anita Kerr) was a labor of love. I love working with Anita. She's a remarkable talent."

"I'm writing a movie for 'The Ship' which five or six movie companies are bidding on. I'd like to get Anatol Aimee to play the lead. The unusual thing is that the entire score will be recorded before the movie is made--usually it's the last thing done."

"I was kind of forced into writing it but it was through my writing that I became an entertainer."

"MUSIC"

"Music is definitely a universal language. In my new album most of those songs were originally French. It's a universal market for anything as long as it's well done. You can write a song about anything as long as you do it well and in good taste."

"A singer has got to be very cautious with the power they have over people. We live in a society which is completely alienated from each other. Sons can't talk to their fathers, brothers can't talk to their sisters. The art of conversation is gone. I don't know where it went but it's gone."

"INSPIRATION FOR WRITING"

"Almost all of the time I write from personal experiences. They're either something that's happened to me or something that I know about or feel. I think any songwriter relies on personal experiences. I feel that's what you do best and I am trying to relate man's inability to communicate with man."

"I'm not protesting. One magazine compared me with Bob Dylan. That kind of comparison because Bobby is protesting. I'm not--I'm not asking you to change it."

"Every song should have a beginning, a middle and an end. I don't want to write for a market. I write what pleases me and say what pleases me in the best way that I know how. The other you get the more you are."

"I haven't noticed any drastic changes in lyrics during the past five years except lyrics like "By me to the moon and let me play among the stars, let me see what you see and what the naked facts don't make me. Nowadays, they'll believe you only if you say 'let's take a walk. I can't give you the moon, if I could, I would, but I'll buy you some flowers at the corner.' There's more reality now and not the sophistication of say, Cole Porter."

"So now you know where Rod McKuen lives--whether you agree with him or not, at least now you know a little bit about what goes on in his mind. He deserves at least that much from you."
Gypsy Boots: Special Horticultural Consultant

It's the era of the Flower Children. It's the age of "Flower Power" radio. It's what's happening, baby.

Fully realizing the world and especially the younger generations is saying it with flowers, KRLA has hired famed nature boy Gypsy Boots as special horticultural consultant in its program of "Flower Power" radio.

Boots will be in charge of handing out flowers to listeners and non-listeners alike, regardless of the length of their hair, and otherwise promoting "Flower Power" radio. He will also visit the Monterey Pop Festival with an adequate supply of floral gifts.

It is reportedly a bad year for hay fever sufferers.

Martha Turns Reporter And Interviews Fellow Vandellas

By Eden

One of the top female recording groups in the country today is Martha and the Vandellas, currently riding high on the national record charts with their latest hit, "Dyin' Mack." In addition to being one of the most successful trios in America today, they are also three of the nicest and most versatile girls we know.

So versatile, in fact, that we decided to let the girls go for themselves this time around! Instead of firing questions at them, then, we asked lead singer, Martha Reeves, to interview her two friends, and below you will find the results of the day that Martha Reeves turned Girl Reporter for BEAT:

"This is Martha, of Martha and the Vandellas, and with me I have Rosalind Ashford and Betty Kelly.

MARTHA: Betty, do you plan on taking a vacation soon and where would you like to go on a vacation?

BETTY: "Well, if we ever get a vacation -- which we all need! -- I think I'd like to go to Hawaii for about a week or two weeks.

MARTHA: "Rosalind, what would you say to a young girl who's interested in show business if she were to ask you whether or not you think it would be best for her to go into show business? What would you say to her, and what kind of points would you give her on entertaining?"

ROSA: "Well, first of all, I would let her know that it would be very wise for her if she hasn't graduated from high school yet -- to stay in school and get as much of an education as she can. Then I would go into details as to telling her how hard it is to be an entertainer and let her know that everything isn't all fun. It consists of work, and sacrifices, and all sorts of things, and she really has to have a solemn mind to go into being an entertainer. But, after you get into it, and you really enjoy it -- it's something that is really beautiful and it's something that you really want to do."

MARTHA: Betty, what kind of fellows do you like? What do you look for particularly in a man?"'

BETTY: "Well, I think I like a person who can be a lot of fun but still keep his composure. I like a quiet-type person -- not too loud -- and one who likes to do the things I would want to do, or we'd compromise!"

MARTHA: "Rosalind, if you had it to do over again, would you still choose the singing profession as a career?"

ROSA: "Yes, I would! Because, it's gotten to the point where I've been in it so long, and I've been trying at it so long, that if I had to do it over again, I would, indeed, go into it again. I love it and I wouldn't give it up for anything in the world."

MARTHA: "Rosalind, do you think, after being in show business five years, that the exchange of what you sacrifice and the hard work, is equal to your success? Do you think it's an even exchange?"

ROSA: "Yes, I think it is, because -- if you take, for instance, if I hadn't become an entertainer, maybe I would just be working now and I would have my certain friends and things. But, since I have been in entertainment, it's gotten to the point where I've gotten to be well-known and moneywise. I'm not a millionaire yet, but I'm still trying to become a millionaire! Moneywise, I'm satisfied. It's just a thing where we're known by everybody and it's a thing where everybody loves you and you get a chance to meet so many people... very many interesting people that maybe I wouldn't have had the opportunity of meeting if I hadn't become an entertainer."

MARTHA: "In the Vogue magazine, I noticed recently that all the styles were mini-skirts. Do you feel about the mini-skirts? Do you think they're going to last or will it come there (the mini-skirt) will go as fast as the like the tophat bathing suits?"

ROSA: "Well, I think they're going to be here for awhile, but I don't think it's going to be a long-drawn-out thing. I don't think they're going to last a long time, but I'll give them, maybe another year."

MARTHA: "A lot of men turn their noses down at women in pants, but I find that you wear quite a few yourself, Betty. How do you feel about pants?"

BETTY: "I like them, and if you've noticed -- whenever I stop, I always try to find a slacks-suit that is unique and yet feminine. I have quite a collection of slacks that I started in England. I think we were the first girls to have bell-bottoms over here -- all of us bought them while we were in England, and we had ours about a year-and-a-half before they ever came to the United States. But, usually I get quite a few compliments on my slacks from fellows."

MARTHA: "Kiele and/or Clang be praised! Bona fortuna (that's Italian for good luck) (which I bet is spelled folly and good fortune) (phew!) is with us! For the most part, this issue's column (there must be a descriptive word (and is) won't be written by me! You have been spared. Instead, I'll be using a lot of the space to help you get the answers. You heard his voice. Your arm will not work.

1. You find a bumper sticker (unusual) (futeri) the sidewalk. You pick it up. You can't read it out what it says, but it is very attractive. You place it on your bumper. Two months later someone tells you it is a dirty word in a foreign language.

2. You are on the way to a party. It isn't far so you are walking. The weather is icy. You fall down. You get up. You find you have completely split your new tight pants. Later on, your hostess almost succeeds in making you take your coat off.

3. You are very groovy in the cafeteria who has sat down at your table because he can't hear yourself in the room. You start to talk. The guy next to you starts to sing and hum. But the radio station is not playing the album. All state opens. You get car-sick and just lapse into unconsciousness.

4. You are walking down a crowded street. You see someone you know. You gather up your courage and approach him. He laughs heartily in your face. They turn around. So does everyone else. You have never seen any other people before in your life.

5. You are at a drive-in movie theater. You are watching a movie starring your five. You do your hair. You get your dress up again and gash. You box (and gasp). So much yall fall on the floor. As you get up, you see who is sitting in front of you. You are the only person you have ever seen who is almost as cute as Paul. And he has also been attracted to you.

6. You drive home and get out of the car. You get out of the car, and put your purse on top of the car while you lock the car. You remember you forgot something. You unlock the car and drive off. Later you miss your purse, while wondering why people are pointing.

7. You are cooking dinner for someone of your friends. You are fixing spaghetti. The sauce is bubbling and ready. You keep testing the spagetti (this is what they say in England when they've been sick) until it's done just perfect. You place a strainer in the sink. You start to pour the spagetti into same. You miss.

8. You park in a lot where there is an attendant. You go away for a hot dog. When you come back, you realize you do not have any money left. You begin praying you are better looking you are. Either that or that he needs glasses.

9. You meet someone you have always put up a front in front of (hat!) and acted very sophisticated and grown up. You are in the process of mailing a huge box to the Monkees.

10. You find a bumper sticker (unusual) (futeri) the sidewalk. You pick it up. You can't read it out what it says, but it is very attractive. You place it on your bumper. Two months later someone tells you it is a dirty word in a foreign language.

Fair Lady

12. You go to another party. You heard it was a costume party so you dress like The Fair Lady. You heard wrong.

13. You dive into a crowded swimming pool. You surface come up air. Everyone's mouth falls open. You hurriedly check to see that you had not lost part of your bathing suit. You find you have only lost half of your bathing suit.

14. You go to a rock and roll concert. Many times in the past you have stage all over on phonies. This time you have a real pass (never mind what you had to do to get it). They will not take it.

15. Your girlfriend is starting to put on a lot of weight. In fact, she is fat. You never mention this. One night you are talking to her at a dance. She asks you why boys never ask her to dance. You tell her. (Whoppa.)

Get Smart

16. You meet a member of a rock and roll group you have never heard of. He rather likes you. You think you are smart and don't like him in return because no one has ever heard of his group. He later on joins one of the five most famous groups in the country.

17. You go to a slumber party. All of you make buttons with the names of boys you like (who, in most cases, do not like you) and you wear them. (The buttons, not the boys.) You forget to take yours off the next day at school. You know who is in your American Lit class.

Hmmm.

Hmmm. Out of room. Would you believe eighteen ways to feel like a moron? Don't worry. I'll print the rest of them soon. By the way, Sheila swears all these things happened to her. In that case, it's not her being for swearing.
